TVA's Connected Communities

Advancements in technology and access to data have unlocked the ability for communities to prosper in innovative ways and contribute to a dynamic energy grid. The Connected Communities initiative provides strategic guidance, data-driven tools and practical resources to equip communities to navigate complex issues effectively.

The Connected Communities initiative can help prepare your community to make progress in these areas:

	Energy
	Resilience
	Workforce
	Broadband

Unlocking Opportunities for Communities to Prosper

Through this work, TVA will help communities address challenges and build capacity in:

Vision, Governance and Community Planning Efforts

Policies, plans and partnerships that can aid in setting and achieving milestones.

Assets and Infrastructure

Systems and processes needed to make progress in areas like housing, smart meters and broadband.
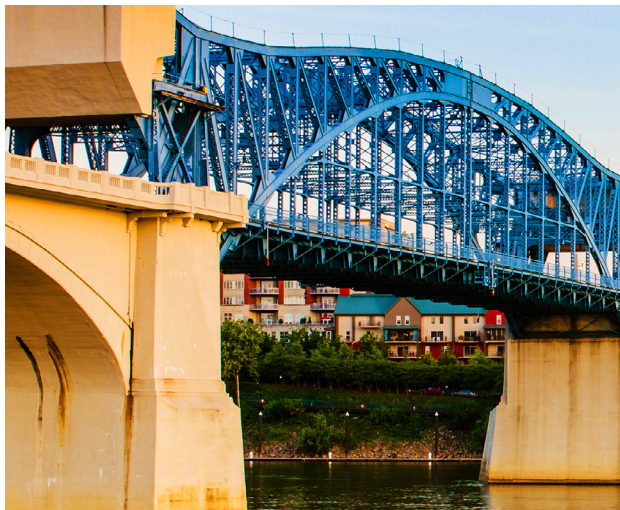

Funding and Resource Access

Highlighting funds and developing other resources that support action and strategic progress.

Skilled and Engaged Community

An active network of skilled stakeholders and experts inform and drive action, supporting new business and locally sourced innovation.

Learn About Connected Communities in Action

Connected Communities makes progress achievable by combining structure, support and strategic collaboration. Through technology and data-driven Pilot Projects and year-long Community Partnerships, the initiative provides added capacity and a clear process to help communities move from ideas to implementation in the areas of energy, resilience, workforce and broadband.
